

Angels Can Be at Class!

Hand out some chocolates in the class so that everyone receives 2 chocolates. Ask your friends to eat one and to keep another intact. Everyone should write her or his name on the inner side of the chocolate paper.

Now it is time to wrap the written paper over the other chocolate. Wrap it until it gets tight. Next, pour all the chocolates into a big bowl and mix all of them. Everyone should pick one and open the outer paper. He or she reads the name of a friend very slowly and not loudly. If it was his or her own name should return it to the bowl again and stir them and take the other one.

He or she is to be the angel of the owner's name. From now on, he or she will be the angel of the one whose name was written on his or her chocolate paper.

Being angle for someone is too nice, because of any kinds of support that the persons will receive from their angles, such as receiving presents, hearing happy news, and etc. In order to have an angle for ever, do your best that nobody informs whose angle you are. It is so good to be an angle for ever, too.
